RELIGION IN THE NEWS

By LOLA DAVIS

Salaries for Sunday School Teachers?

A recent interview in a religious publication suggested paying Sunday school teachers. This may be one solution to the problem of falling attendance in our church schools. Could it be that we are not getting good instruction because we are unwilling to pay for it? Men and women, too, would like to be paid. This is our medium of exchange—money is only an intermediate step. Those prepared to teach know that adequate teaching requires preparation, and preparation requires time. It also requires training, personnel, and training takes time. The center is it is thought that if a religious teacher around his mouth that would hold it. Yet, if the individual had inspired a teacher, God could fill it more abundantly. That is not to say that we must direct inspiration in religious teaching if we employ scientifically trained teachers. Certainly the inspiration is fundamental. Yet it can produce the best work only through properly trained individuals. What we value we are willing to pay for.

State vs. Church Schools

Four campus Christians spoke in nearby churches two Sundays ago, and last Sunday a church spoke over the radio at Harrisburg church on behalf of the Student Christian Foundation. The theme of these programs was the necessity for teaching religion identified with higher education. At one time American schools were entirely religious. Now we have disseminated religion and education to such an extent that character development is endangered. Such organizations as the Student Christian Foundation are filling this need. Yet the present

Friendless Freshmen

Over five hundred new students came to Southern this fall. Of this number a large group was reached before their arrival by true Southern hospitality expressed through the Big Brothers and Big Sisters of the Baptist Foundation. These Southern upper classmen wrote letters to them, met them at the bus, helped them unpack and helped them through the maze of registration. When religion is expressed in such concrete ways as this it is not difficult to understand the vitality and cohesiveness of their group.

GRID OPENER WITH CHARLESTON, M'ANDREW STADIUM, SAT. 2 P. M.

In an interview, yesterday, Coach Glenn "Abe" Martin appeared to be very optimistic as he put his grid squad through its last hours of drill before the 1941 football season opens for Southern tomorrow with the game with Eastern on McAndrew Field at 2:00 p. m.

Eastern, one of Southern's oldest rivals has a well balanced team built around two lettermen from the 1940 varsity. Tomorrow's game will be the second of the season for Charleston, as the defeated Macon last week-end 1940. Eastern has a fair line and a good speedy backfield including the man who won the state 100-yard dash last year in 16.2 seconds. This backfield, which is slightly heavier than Southern's, is expected to start its offense from a T formation varied with a single-wingback.

Howey Tweedy, letterman, will act as captain for Southern in the opener. J. R. Shields, freshman from Mt. Vernon, will call signals on offense and defense from the quarterback position. Southern will have a big advantage in weight. Although the backfield is not quite as heavy as Eastern's, the S.N.C. line will average over 12-pounds heavier.

This week has been one of busy work for Mr. Martin and Mr. Freeberg and the squad who have only been working together for three weeks. Much of the practice this week has been devoted to scrimmage and the fellows seem to be working well together for so early in the season. Lineups of both teams will be set largely of freshmen who had experience in high school football.

The probable starting lineups are as follows:

Southern
Name	Pos. Wt.
Lee	LT 240
Simpson	LT 225
Tweedy	LT 200
Conner	C 220
McWhorter	RT 160
Nelson	RT 170
Shields	QB 175
Stanton	QB 162
Line average: 197. Backfield average 158.

Eastern
Name	Pos. Wt.
Cook	E 250
Box	E 235
Boit	T 200
Carlyle	T 205
Aufdenkamp	G 180
Tipton	G 165
Seaton	C 190
Line average: 174. Backfield average 160.
